MUSIC, EVOLUTION AND THE HARMONY OF THE SOULS

Sunday May 6, 2018 at 2 p.m.

Lecture Theatre, State Library of WA

While Emeritus Professor Harvey's laboratory research interests focus on using a variety of approaches in attempts to promote the repair of the injured central nervous system, he has a special interest in music, and has long wondered why humans respond to it in such a universal way.

Why do we have music as well as language to communicate and what role does music play?? The subject of his lecture is based on his recent book published by Oxford University Press, "Music, Evolution and the Harmony of Souls."

Presented by:

Emeritus-Professor Alan Harvey
University of WA, School of Human Sciences.
